OUTLINES.

Mobile which was cut [illegal] the outside world by the tro[illegal] hurricane wah heard from yesterday by way of Meridian, Miss., the city suffered a great calamity, many lives being lossed, 5,000 houses destroyed, the business part of the city devastated, seven steamers and other craft being sunk, and the money loss being placed at $3,000,000; there is no railroad connection, food is scarce and there is great suffering among the people——The storm at Pensacola resulted in a disaser almost equaling tha at Galveston some years ago; the damage is estimated at $5,00,000,000; of fifty or sixty ships in the harbor, only five or six rode out the storm, others being thrown ashore by immense waves and some broke through houses a block from the water front; many lives have been lost——President Palma and his cabinet resigned yesterday, the Cuban Congress refused to meet last night, and intervention by the United States is inevitable; Secretary Taft will today proclaim himself Governor of Cuba under authority of President Roosevelt——New York markets: Money on call strong, 4 1-2 to 7 per cent., ruling rate 6 1-2, closing bid 4 1-2, offered at 5; spot cotton quiet, 9.70; flour steady, with better demand for Spring grades; wheat easy, No. 2 red, 78 5-8 elevator, mixed 37 1-2; turpentine steady 64 1-2 to 65; rosin steady.

Looks as if we are going to inherit Spain's troubles.

How does Assistant Secretary Bacon like to play second fiddle to Secretary Taft in Cuba?

The negroes have a problem of their own in some plan to restrain and control the criminal class of their race.

Some of the Oriental tribes believe that woman originally was a bird. There may be some circumstancial evidence in the fact that even unto this day a woman will fly up at you in a minute if you tramp on her toes.

The Socialists of Texas have nominated a woman for Congress on an anti-graft platform. That means that she is going to try to get votes on the idea that she will keep her skirts clean if she is elected to Congress.

The Panamenos are probably not surprised that the Roosevelt emissaries sided with the Cuban insurgents. The Panama insurgents remember a conspicuous precedence in that connection.

We fear that President Palma, first President of the Island Republic, will never go down to fame as the George Washington of Cuba. In failing to suppress the insurgents, he has also missed the opportunity of becoming the Abe Lincoln of his Republic.

Newspapers are commenting with some sort of mistrust on Uncle Joe Cannon's declaration that he is "not a candidate for the Presidency." Of course, Uncle Joe means that he is not a candidate of the probability class.

As the circumlocuting hands of the clock point to the campaign time, President Roosevelt gets awfully busy with the eight-hour work day law. In fact he works overtime on it and violates the union rules instead of having made it easier by beginning enforcement of the eight-hour law three or four years ago.

The platform adopted by the New York State Republican convention makes this demand: "Reduction of representation in the electoral college and in Congress to offset suppression of the elective franchise." And, yet, Taft, Shaw and the rest of the Republican spellbinders express surprise that the South remains solidly Democratic.

President Roosevelt is stuck on demanding that public resorts shall respect the United States uniform. Probably the resort managers see nothing wrong with the glorious uniform but wonder why the President does not do some "respect" missionary work on some of the fellows who are inside the uniform.

ANNUAL RECEPTION

Delightful Social Affair at Y. M. C. A. Last Night, Opening the Season.

ADDRESS BY DR. McCLURE

Over Three Hundred Enjoyed Various Features of Entertainment—Music and Refreshments—Under Auspices of Auxiliary.

The annual opening reception for the Fall and Winter season at the Young Men's Christian Association last night under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary is spoken of by all who attended as one of the most delightful affairs ever given upon a similar occasion. It is estimated that over three hundred were in attendance and the various features of entertainment were first-class in every respect.

The reception took place in the spacious gymnasium of the building which was very attractively arranged for the event and handsomely decorated. Mrs. C. C. Covington, the president, and members of the Auxiliary received the guests and all were most cordially welcomed. From 8:30 to 9:30 there was a programme of splendid instrumental music by the orchestra and this was followed by the regular programme for the evening. Features of the vocal music were solos by Miss Carrie E. Barker, a charming contralto, of Baltimore, and the Acme Male Quartette, which is well known to an Association audience. These selections were delightfully pleasing and were encored time and again.

The address of the evening was by the Rev. A. D. McClure, D. D., pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, whose heart and soul is in every effort for the uplift of the young man. Dr. McClure had for his subject "The Association—Its Importance in the Community." He began by saying that no great institution and no good cause ever existed without its limitations, either in its nature, circumstances or conditions. Even the church, pillar and ground of the truth, failed to measure up to its own ideals by reason of these limitations, therefore, it was not a fair criticism of the Y. M. C. A. to say that it failed to measure up to our ideals of what it ought to do. It was worth while to consider, however, what called the Y. M. C. A. into existence. He knew of no better way to show this than by a use of the words used by the Master in the parable of the Good Samaritan when he said of the young man on his way to Jericho that he fell "among thieves." So any young man leaving the Jerusalem of his country Christian home and the altar of his mother's knee, on the way to any Jericho of a modern city, would fall "among thieves" who would rob him of his physical manhood, his morals and his money. Sir George Williams, knowing this, made the beginning of the Y. M. C. A. as a refuge from all such thieves and all Y. M. C. A.'s since his time are meant to do the same. If they fail in any degree, it is only as all good institutions fail in their degree.

From this Dr. McClure spoke of the advantage of the Y. M. C. A. here; commended it for what it had done and said that the peculiar conditions here largely explained any of its seeming failures. Dr. McClure's address is spoken of by all who heard it as pleasing and uplifting to a degree seldom attained in addresses of like character.

After the formal part of the exercises the refreshment committee, of which Mrs. C. T. Harper was chairman, served dainty edibles to the large number of guests assembled and it was a late hour before the last had taken their departure. The reception was full of bright augury for other social features at the Y. M. C. A. during the Fall and Winter months.

OVER IN BRUNSWICK

Politics the Absorbing Topic—Democratic County Convention Next Wednesday; Republicans the Week After.

Politics in Brunswick county from all accounts are at fever heat. Superior Court at Southport the past week afforded an excellent opportunity for the clans to get together and the candidates and their friends are said to have made good use of the time. The Democratic County Convention will be held at Lockwood's Folly Wednesday at noon for the purpose of nominating county officers and the Republican convention will meet at the same place the Tuesday following at the same hour. At the later meeting J. B. Schulken, Republican nominee for Congress in this district, is scheduled to speak.

Another meeting at Lockwood's Folly however, without political significance, will be the annual reunion of Confederate Veterans there on Wednesday week, October 17th. All veterans and the public generally are invited to come and enjoy a basket picnic. Hon. H. L. Godwin, Democratic nominee for Congress in this district, has consented to deliver the annual address to the veterans.

One of the contests before the Democratic County Convention next Wednesday will be over the shrievalty for which there are two promising candidates, Sheriff Peter Rourk, the incumbent, and Mr. J. Dillard Bellamy, a son of State Senator Bellamy, who is strongly endorsed. United States Commissioner W. T. Pinner at Southport announces his candidacy for the office "subject to the will of the people."

The Senatorial matter between the counties of Brunswick and New Hanover was widely discussed among the political lights of the west side of the river during court week and it is understood that New Hanover voters as a mass were warmly commended for the generous endorsement given their nominee in the primary while the so-called convention last Monday of the "delegates uninstructed" came in for a good share of condemnation.

PRIMARY IRREGULARITIES.

Chairman Burriss Makes Statement as to Second Ward Registration.

Editor Star: In this morning's issue of your paper Mr. Boney states that he will not stand still and wink at the wrong doing of anybody to prevent any honest voter the privilege of casting his ballot; this is a reflection on the Executive Committee and I, as chairman, will not stand still and allow Mr. Boney or anybody else to insinuate that there was any wrong doing. I, as chairman, complied with the primary law and demanded the names of the voters from the custodian of the books, which is the register of deeds and he gave me the books in such shape that it was impossible to do anything with them, and Mr. Biddle, the register of deeds, bought new books himself and had new copies made. If Mr. Boney's name did not appear on them it was the fault of the person who copied the names and no fault of the registrar.

Respectfully,
J. H. BURRISS,
Chairman Executive Com.

THE McKANNA CURE.

Large Class of Patients Being Made Up by Pastors of City.

A large class of patients have been made up by the pastors of Wilmington churches to take advantage of the generous offer of Dr. J. J. McKanna to treat them all free of charge for the liquor habit. Trained attendants from Dr. McKanna's sanitarium in Reidsville, will arrive here Monday morning and the class will be treated at some hall which the ministers will provide for those who are addicted to the drink evil. One of the original class of five treated in the demonstration class earlier in the week at The Orton, called at the Star office yesterday to say that when he volunteered for the treatment he had been on a spree of ten days and had lost his position. Yesterday he received word from his employers to come back and he is now in his old job a sober man.

THE SHOCKLEY TRIAL

Jury Completed and All Evidence in by Adjournment Yesterday Evening.

ARGUMENT BEGINS TODAY

Witnesses Yesterday Told of Tragedy at Front and Dock July a Year Ago—An Incident Between two of the Number.

With the adjournment of Superior Court for the day between 6 and 7 o'clock yesterday evening, all the evidence in the case of M. W. Shockley, charged with the killing of Frank Talbert, was in and argument to the jury by counsel will begin first thing this morning. This will likely be completed about noon and the case will probably reach the jury by 3 or 4 o'clock. The State has the right to the opening and closing, but whether this will be exercised or not as to the opening will be decided to-day. Solicitor Duffy will close the argument for the prosecution and William J. Bellamy, his associate will probably open, though this, as stated, has not been definitely decided. All day yesterday the court was engaged in hearing the testimony of the large number of witnesses introduced by both sides. Judge Jones announced early in the day that he proposed to complete the testimony if it took until midnight and this had the effect of expediting matters. Counsel for the defendant are all present, Messrs. Bellamy & Bellamy, Herbert McClammy and Walter P. Gafford, Esqs.

When court met at 9 o'clock yesterday morning the selection of a jury was resumed. Mr. Oscar Wright who had been called into the box the afternoon previous, was accepted by both sides. The calling of the special venire was then begun. Messrs. S. R. Ellis, Archie MacRae, Warren S. Johnson and Jno. C. Heyer were excused by one side or another and Mr. W. H. Scarborough was finally selected as the twelfth juror, completing the panel as follows: Bryan M. Hill, Thos. Torpy, Jr., Haywood F. Newkirk, E. A. Hughes, George F. Quinn, Wm. E. King, Jas. E. Smith, Jas. E. Murphy, John Haar, F. W. Westerman, O. H. Wright and W. H. Scarborough.

The State opened its case with the introduction of Dr. C. D. Bell, the coroner, who submitted his observation of the case, testifying that the blow on the head alleged to have been dealt by Shockley caused the death. Dr. W. D. McMillan, who did an autopsy on the body after death, testified to substantially the same and gave his written report of the autopsy. The first witness to the tragedy itself was Charles Sellars, a companion of the dead man, who went to the Shockley saloon with him on the night of the killing between 7 and 8 o'clock. Frank Talbert, William Talbert, Joe Yates and Pet O'Neill, all marble cutters, were along. They left the marble yard together and went up around the market, had several drinks together and entered the Shockley saloon at Front and Dock streets. A band of negro musicians was playing in the saloon and a stranger pushed Talbert on one of them with the result that a fight ensued. S. A. Robbins, the bartender, pushed them on out of the door, the witness preceding them to the sidewalk. Robbins came out with Talbert struggling and finally got loose and started back in the bar. Talbert grabbed him by the coat tail and pulled him out the door and they began to fight again. They held each other by the arm, Talbert being a tall man and Robbins slight of stature. Shockley came out of the saloon, looked up the street each way; had a club behind him and leaning over struck Talbert three or four times on the head. Talbert fell face downwards and Shockley cursed at him. O'Neill and Yates picked the wounded man up and went up Dock street.

Sellars was cross-examined by Mr. Marsden Bellamy, and was followed by Pet O'Neill for the State. His version of the affair was practically the same as that of Sellars, though his testimony covered the facts of the wounded man being taken on up to Tucker's marble yard where for a long time it was thought that the man's unconsciousness was due to the fact that he was under the influence of liquor. Later he was taken to the hospital after midnight. The witness was rigidly cross-examined by Herbert McClammy, Esq., the burden of which was to show that the crowd was out for the avowed purpose

CHANGE IN MANAGERS

IN EFFECT OCTOBER FIRST

New Man Comes From New York District—Service in Wilmington and North Carolina Greatly Improved Recently.

Mr. John E. Wood, who for the past ten years has been manager of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company in this city, has tendered his resignation on account of his health and of a desire to be relieved of the responsibilities of the position, and is succeeded by Mr. J. T. North, who has been with the Postal system for a number of years in various capacities. The change, it is understood, will take place on October 1st, Mr. Wood remaining with the company in another capacity in Wilmington. Superintendent G. W. Ribble, of the Washington office, has been in the city a couple of days and the official announcement of the change was made by him before returning to Washington yesterday morning. Patrons of the Postal will regret exceedingly to see Mr. Wood away from the managerial desk, but will be glad to know that he will remain with the company. He is whole-souled, generous and popular. It is to be regretted that circumstances are such as require his retirement from the position he has held for so many years.

Mr. North, who succeeds Mr. Wood, is a native of Georgia and was lately in charge of an important business district of the Postal service in New York city. He will receive a cordial welcome to Wilmington by the numerous patrons of the Postal.

The Postal Company has recently added to its local facilities a direct wire between Wilmington and New York and have made a vast number of other improvements. The office is now completely furnished with dynamo equipment and multiple apparatus which very materially adds to the capacity of the office for handling business. The multiple apparatus makes it possible to send two or more messages over one wire at the same time in the same or in an opposite direction, representing one of the latest developments in economic devices in telegraphy.

In addition to adding the new equipment in the local office, the Postal has recently extended its lines throughout this section making a larger number of points accessible than ever before. A new line has been strung between Durham and Dunn, N. C., opening up a large intermediate territory, and a new line is also being built between Raleigh and Wilson. There are also a number of extensions contemplated more directly in Eastern North Carolina.

PROSPEROUS IN SPITE OF TURMOIL.

One of the remarkable things in the midst of all this prosperity is that revolution ridden Santo Domingo is prosperous. United States Minister Thomas C. Dawson, reports from that turbulent negro republic that he finds commercial and industrial conditions more satisfactory than at any time since he reached his post more than two years ago. We are surprised to observe from his report that there is petroleum in the island. In the southern portion the operations of two American companies engaged in sinking petroleum wells and making hemp are furnishing considerable employment to labor. In the northern part, where the cattle raising industry is the mainstay, the herds have rapidly increased and the market prices of beeves and hides are satisfactory to producers. Wood-cutting throughout the country is more active than in a long time, and the sugar estates are running to their full capacity. The cocoa industry also flourishes and money is plentiful. At Puerta Plata the collector in June took in import collections amounting to $111,000 for the month—the largest ever collected in any one month by the custom house.

Santo Domingo is prosperous for the reason that the United States are prosperous. That reason is that all the world is prosperous, thus creating a demand for the products of labor. When there is a demand we can sell our stuff. Politics doesn't cut much ice in prosperity, and revolution doesn't prevent it in Santo Domingo unless the people are prevented from working. As long as the demand keeps up prosperity will continue and when demand is shut off politics has to lick its hands. Plenty of work to do and the ability of people to buy what we make brings prosperity in spite of the Republican party of the United States. That brings prosperity in Santo Domingo, and all other countries where the voice of the Republican campaign spieler is never heard.

HEAVY BORROWING ABROAD.

In the midst of all the prosperity of the United States we are borrowing millions of dollars from European financiers. Republicans will tell you that it is a sign that we are prosperous when we are borrowing, but it is not only a sign but a fact that the Europeans are prosperous when they have the money to lend us. This is just mentioned to show that prosperity is not confined to the United States where the Republican party takes the people for fools and tells them from the stump in this year of 1906 that our prosperity depends upon it.

There is, however, some anxiety about our borrowing. The New York Journal of Commerce says about it:

"In view of the monetary stringency considerable attention is being devoted in Wall Street to our heavy borrowings abroad, particularly since large amounts of finance bills fall due in October. The total amount of these bills held in Europe is variously estimated at between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000, an aggregate about $100,000,000 larger than the normal at this time of the year. Stock market operations explain the debt we have piled up abroad, large operators foreseeing the scarcity here, having provided themselves with accommodation several months ago. An inroad was made upon English surplus capital when the Bank of England reduced its rate to 3 1-2 per cent. last Summer, and borrowing has taken place steadily up to the recent advance in the rate of 4 per cent. Large amounts of bills are also held in Paris, but Germany has not been as great a factor because of its high discounts resulting from the phenomenal trade activity.

"While admitting that our indebtedness on account of finance bills is unusually heavy, most foreign exchange houses express no apprehension of the outcome, pointing out that these ninety-day bills, in most cases, carry the option of renewal at their expiration, thus practically being for six months. While those drawing the bills will be compelled to pay a higher rate of interest than when they were put out, it is stated that foreign banks like to loan on American collateral, the English joint-stock banks, in particular, doing a large business of this character. Although in some cases ultra-conservative institutions request that the collateral be shipped abroad, most of them allow it to remain on this side in trust companies, subject to their call. A great many of these bills are held abroad by banks as a short-time investment, being only re-discounted in the event of shortage of funds. The Bank of England can, of course, exercise an influence upon the joint-stock banks by raising rates, but if our operators are willing to pay the price, there is no danger of a crisis arising through demand for payment."

OPPOSITE VIEWS OF MR. HEARST

Arthur Brisbane Writes of What He Has Accomplished and Stands for. New York Times Can't Stand for Him.

(Arthur Brisbane in N. Y. Times.)

What has Hearst done thus far?

He has created what was essential to his work, a powerful machine for influencing public opinion.

He has built his newspapers up to a daily circulatnion of 2,000,000. And that circulation is increasing constantly.

Every day Hearst is able to talk with 2,000,000 American families scattered everywhere in this country. His newspapers are published in Boston, New York, Chicago, San Francisco, and Los Angeles. And they will soon be published in many other cities.

With this enormous circulation Hearst is able every day to spread the truth and reply to falsehood. The constant bitter efforts that are made to misrepresent him fail, for his voice reaches further than the voice of any other man in the country. There has never before been assembled in this world an audience such as that which Hearst commands, and therefore it is safe to say that there has never been a man possessing his peculiar influence and power for good.

The building up of this tremendous engine of publicity is his greatest accomplished work, undoubtedly. And with that engine his real work is still to be done.

He has made dishonest wealth disreputable throughtout the Nation. He has convinced the people that the rule of organized capital is not American government or honorable government. He has been the greatest creator of intelligent dissatisfaction, the basis of improvement, this country has seen.

Hearst has made innumerable fights in the interest of the people at his own expense, with great expenditure of money and of personal energy. Various trusts have been fought by him through the courts and up to the Supreme Court. He certainly has the honor of being hated more deeply by the public enemies of this country than any other man in it. A mere enumeration of the lawsuits that he has begun and prosecuted on behalf of the public welfare fills out a canciderable pamphlet.

Mr. Hearst is already the greatest awakener and director of public opinion and of public anger against injustice that the country has seen in many years.

In the way of actual good. Hearst has accomplished much by his influence in increasing the distriubtion of money.

He has sided with workmen in just fights against corporation employers and has helped them to win. This means that additional money has been divided among the families of working people instead of being added to dividends on watered stocks.

Tens of millions a year are added to the incomes of wives and mothers in this country because of Hearst's activity in promoting the legitimate distribution of wealth.

What are Hearst's plans for the future?

He means to be a useful man in his country, working within the law for the betterment of conditions. His confidence is in the general intelligence of the people, and the fight that he has on hand just now is to make universal suffrage a reality, an expression of the public will.

(From the New York Times.)

It is fitting, and indeed, a manifest duty, in connection with the publication of Mr. Brisbane's eulogy, to set down calmly and dispassionately to the simple facts respecting Hearst per force. They are substantially as follow: As a journalist, though keen, enterprising and resourceful, he is a burning disgrace to the craft; as a politician, though shrewd and at times even sagacious, he is no more scrupulous than the basest of those whom he has stigmatized as criminals; as a paritsan, though earnest and efficient in appealing to the masses, he is a traitor; as an office-holder he is pre-eminent in a shameful neglect of his duties; as an agittator, his delight consists in reveling in the excitement of evil passions; as a dual personality, though posessed of many engaging qualities, he is utterly devoid of character, so unsteady in even his own recklessness, so faithless to his professed ideas, so scornfully disregardful of moral responsibility, so addicted to detestable practices in efforts to gratify his ambitions, so sinfully persistent in stirring the caldron of discontent, envy and hatred as to be a living and glaring reproach to American civilization.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other. **

SOUTHERN GIRLS WANT TO GO NORTH

She Goes Conquering and to Conquer. She Is Delightful and Emphatically All Right—New York Papers Say So.

(New York Mail.)

The Southern girl who wants to come North, and who particularly wants to see New York, is "in our midst." She has been coming north for some time. She has been arriving in little parties, but most of all she has been coming singly. She has been coming as one of the "ten most popular girls" of Kentucky, or Alabama, or Tennessee, or any old State or city. She has been here 250 strong, in the form of an "educational tour" from Radnor College, Nashville, Tenn. She is delightful in whatever guise she comes, but most delightful, beyond all question, when she arrives alone and unheralded, fresh from her little boarding school "college" or her simple Southern home, ready to run a newspaper, operate a typewriter or accept a situation in the ribbon department of a dry goods store. She comes conquering and to conquer. She knows what she wants when she gets here and we believe there is no instance on record in which she has failed to obtain it. Go where you will in the South, you will find the girl who is getting ready to come North, and the goal of whose earthly desires is this city. It is useless to talk to her about the charms of Southern life. She loves the South and loves her home, but she wants to live. She wants to be free. She wants an environment that affords scope for her energies and stimulates her to more energy. The South has changed a great deal; the time has gone by when it was a social disgrace there for a woman even to teach school. But some of the old social prejudice against a woman doing anything still survives. It handicaps the girl's activity. It makes her feel suffocated. She knows that women work, and win their way, and excel, in the North and she longs to get here. This emigration of its brightest girls is the South's heavy loss and our everlasting gain. It is a steady current of beauty, energy and vivacity pouring into Northern society. We could well afford to pay every cent of the expenses of these groups of "most popular," and these educational tours of Southern college girls, for they add fuel to the flame of the girls' desire to get North; and when they get here, they are an asset that we never willingly relinquish. They are emphatically all right. Let them come.

THE BREATH OF LIFE

It is a significant fact that the strongest animal of its size, the gorilla also has the largest lungs. Powerful lungs mean powerful creatures. How to keep the breathing organs right should be man's chiefest study. Like thousands of others, Mrs. Ora A. Stephens, of Port Williams O., has learned how to do this. She writes: "Three bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery stopped my cough of two years and cured me of what my friends thought consumption. O, it's grand for throat and lung troubles." Guaranteed by all druggist.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—Henry Knox who shot himself while hunting near LaGrange on Monday and whose leg was amputated near the hip, died on Wednesday night.

—Snow Hill Standard: Two R. & P. S. R. R. men were in Snow Hill last Monday night. They report that ere long the work will begin on the Farmville-Snow Hill branch of that road.

—A carload of marines from Charleston, S. C., passed through Rocky Mount on Thursday en route to Norfolk where they will take a steamer for Cuba. They were lively and happy, evidently taking their trip as mostly a lark.

—At Greensboro on Thursday, in the Beatchman murder trial the jury brought in a verdict of guilty in the first degree as to Frank Bohannon, murder in the second degree as to Kiser Crutchfield, and not guilty as to Oscar.

—Moore County News: Mr. John W. Seawell has propagagted a novelty in bunch grapes. A year or so ago he transplanted a wild woods grape vine in his garden, near a fox grape vine. This year the vine is bearing the first time, and the grapes are in nice size bunches, and about four times as large as those which grow on the wild vines. It is a very nice grape but a little too acid.

—The main building of the Eastern Cotton Oil Company at Hertford was burned Thursday night. Fire broke out at 7 o'clock, catching from a glow lamp while the foreman was under the building fixing a leak in an oil pipe. The building was a sheet of flames in a few minutes. Several employees jumped from the second floor, but no body was seriously hurt. The loss is estimated at $20,000 with insurance of $12,000. Extensive improvements had just been made. Very little oil was on hand. The tanks and other buildings were saved. The mill will be rebuilt immediately.

Fayetteville Special, Sept. 27: Chief of Police Chason has a warrant for one P. Crumpler, M. D., said to be from Pembroke, or about to locate in Pembroke. The warrant says that this Dr. P. Crumpler has been issuing prescriptions for whiskey to a number of Fayetteville boys, in violation of the Cumberland county prohibition law, in that the boys prescribed for were not bonifide patients of the said Dr. Crumpler. The chief has found that quite a number of these prescriptions were put to use, and is now looking for Dr. Crumpler. Dr. Crumpler's friends say that he issued the prescriptions in good faith, while some others say that the Doctor is a myth.

—Williamston Special, Sept. 27: Mr. A. W. Robinson, president of the Wicomico Lumber Company, of Sharptown, Md., was thrown from the automobile of Mr. Surry Parker, of Pinetown, N. C., at noon today and was painfully injured. Three ribs were broken and he received several bruises about the head and shoulders. He was brought to Williamston unconscious and received medical attention. The accident occurred three miles from Williamston, on the Hamilton road. Mr. Parker, the owner of the machine, and Mr. Frank Barnes, the Wicomico Lumber Company's agent, were also in the automobile when the accident occurred, but neither was hurt. The accident was due to the machine swerving and striking a stump. The machine was badly damaged.

—Louisburg special, Sept. 27: Jack Thomas, colored, who lives near the County Home, was killed last night on the porch of his home. The others returned leaving him on the porch and afterwards upon his failure to retire went to look for him and found him dead. Special Coroner Collie and Deputy Sheriff Kearney went out this morning to hold an inquest with the result that Wesley Williams is in jail. It is learned that Williams was heard last Sunday to have made threats to kill Thomas. The wound seemed to have been made by a pistol ball, but none of the man's family heard any report or suspicious noise.

—Lumberton special, Sept. 27: Wm. Bohan, night watchman of the town of Red Springs, was given a hearing here this afternoon on the charge of assaulting James Wilson, colored, with a deadly weapon. Bohan arrested Wilson for cursing on the streets of Red Springs Saturday night and started to the calaboose with him. Wilson broke to run from the officer and the latter fired several shots at him with his pistol, one of which took effect, producing a serious wound. Bohan was placed under $100 bond by a justice of the peace. Later a warrant was sworn out before 'Squire John H. McNeill, of Lumberton, against Bohan, and he gave $500 bond for his apeparance here today. Both sides were represented by attorneys. The case was removed from Mr. McNeill to 'Squire Rowland and examination was waived till next term of Superior Court.

—Durham speical, Sept. 27: Since the publication of the hazing at the University and Trinity a few days ago, the former hazing resulting in the shooting of McNeill by Hatch and the latter resulting in the students coming together to prevent hazing in the future, it is learned that there was a shooting affair in the high school at Trinity a few days ago. The matter has been kept very quiet, but it was probably this shooting that brought about the firm stand of the president and faculty and resulted in such a change on the part of the students. No one was hurt in the shooting. The story is that several went to the door of a freshman for the purpose of hazing him and he fired through the panel of the door, the ball passing through the coat lapel of one of the would-be hazers. Further particulars have been hard to get.

—The peanut growers of Windsor township, Bertie county, organized at Windsor on Thursday and simultaneously all over the county. Mr. H. B. Sherman, general organizer, spoke to the farmers and stated the great benefit the organization would be to the farmers. Among other things he said eighty-seven per cent. of all the peanuts raised in the United States were produced in five eastern counties in North Carolina and six of Virginia. That if these eleven counties would organize and hold their peanuts they could demand and get five cents a pound just as well as they coud three.

—Raleigh News and Observer, Sept. 28: The greatly increased business on the Seaboard Air Line Railway, which necessitates the building of the greatly extended yards at Raleigh, has now necessitated the establishment of many miles of side-track on the line between Raleigh and Hamlet, contracts for the building of which have been awarded to the firm of W. R. Bonsal & Company. Work on side tracks at Colon and Moncure has already begun, over a mile of track being contemplated for each place. The track at Moncure will be of great convenience to the traveling public as it will prevent the vexatious delays now of ordinary occurrence on the Pittsburg branch of the road by the blocking of the passenger train on that line from the depot by standing freight trains.

—Lincolnton special, Sept. 27: The tin mining industry is now creating quite an interest in this section of the State. Two mines within three miles of this place are now being operated by the Piedmont Tin Mining Co., of Atlanta, Ga., and local capital is largely invested. The mines are on the Long Shoals road and on the property known as the John and Henry Carpenter places. The writer visited the mines yesterday in company with a friend. After arriving there we looked up Mr. Anderson Carpenter, who has charge of the mines. Mr. Carpenter took us through the mines and explained the work, which is very interesting. Mr. Carpenter says these mines will be a great thing for this part of the State, as the ore is very valuable and it is a paying business. This is one of the best industries in this section of the State and there are bright prospects for the future prosperity of the county. These mines were opened the first of last November and have been worked with increasing success since that date. The company is now preparing to put in first-class machinery for turning out the tin from the ore, and if this proves as successful as it is expected it will be a bright plume added to the crown of industry in Lincoln county.

—Fayetteville special, Sept. 27: Night before last Fayetteville was invaded by birds of many kinds. All that night from 11 o'clock until dawn, great flocks of geese and ducks flew over the city going south, straight down Green street, directly over the City Hall and thence down Gillespie street, while numerous small birds of several varieties flew under them or in their wake. Several of the geese descended on Market Square and rested for awhile on the K. of P. building and the McKethan building, the two tallest structures thereabouts. One of the policemen on duty that night says that if he had had a gun he would have almost been tempted to take a shot at the geese. A cat bird flew into the pool room in the LaFayette building; and when Jailer Pate arose yesterday morning, he flushed a covey of partridges in the jail yard. Magistrate C. P. Overby and Deputy Sheriff Pate, when they went up town early yesterday, found the four streets radiating from the City Hall, littered with dead birds all of very small variety, such as wrens, tom-tits, and numbers of a small yellow bird, the name for which they did not know, while on every hand, from telegraph and telephone poles, from the top of the City Hall itself and the roofs of other buildings, hundreds of partridges were whistling to each other. These birds must have been driven here by a storm and the small ones, blinded by the electric light, beat themselves to death on the poles and wires.

Well Worth Trying.

W. H. Brown, the popular pension attorney, of Pittsburg, Vt., says "Next to a pension, the best thing to get is Dr. King's New Life Pills." He writes: "they keep my family in splendid health." Quick cure for Headache, Constipation and Biliousness. 25c. Guaranteed at Bellamy's drug store.

"FINNEGAN'S BALL" TO-NIGHT.

Farce Comedy Success at Academy of Music Here.

Wilmington theatregoers have a farce comedy in store for them on to-night when the comedy success "Finnegan's Ball" will be presented at the Academy with a good cast of singers, dancers, and comedians. Never before in the sixteen years of its existence has this attraction been placed before the public with such a formidable array of talent as this season. With the company are seen Barrett and Cale, Frank Gibbons, Ruth Polo, Daisy Kernell, Thomas T. Shea, Harry Edwards and the Misses Jerome and Morrison together with a singing and dancing chorus of rare excellence. Prices 25 to 75 cents.

New Southport Steamer.

The Southport Herald of this week says: "Capt. M. T. Craig left last Monday morning for the North in quest of purchasing the passenger and freight boat for the new steamboat line. Capt. Craig will visit New York, Boston and other northern cities before returning. The company has several excellent boats in view and will purchase immediately a suitable steamer if found. The boat is the one thing lacking now. The company has a large amount subscribed. If Capt. Craig finds a suitable boat the new company will be in operation by Oct. 15th."

of a row. He also brought out discrepances in the testimony of the witnesses as to the number of drinks that had been taken.

Joe Yates was the next witness and his story was about the same as the others, though he could not go so much into details as the others.

L. H. Peterson was the next witness, having viewed the tragedy from a third story window of the tenement house at Front and Dock streets, immediately over the saloon. Shockley hit Talbert twice on the head. At the time Shockley hit Talbert the men did not seem to be fighting but holding each other by the arm. Witness knew Talbert and had lived by him for a number of years.

James King was passing and happened to see the fight. He didn't know the men but a man of about Shockley's build struck Talbert twice with a club. The hour for dinner having arrived the court took a recess until the afternoon. Oscar Bagwell and Charles Hurst were the last witnesses for the State. Their version of the affair was about the same as the others.

The prosecution having rested the defence began its testimony by introducing S. A. Robbins, the bartender, who testified to having been pulled out of the saloon and was in the hands of enemies in danger of his life and limb when his employer came to his rescue and felled the man who had hold of him.

Jno. H. Craig, assistant cashier for the Armour Company, was in the saloon at the time of the disturbance and told of how the row had been precipitated and how it was quelled. The other witnesses were Lutie Croom, Robert Daniels, R. S. Cherry, Christian Peterson, Joe Sneeden and Warren Thorne, one of the colored musicians about whom the disturbance arose. Their testimony was along the same lines as that previously outlined.

Shockley himself was the star witness for the defence. He told a well connected story in a dramatic way and frequently dropped a tear as the various details were brought out. He said that he was in the rear of the saloon when the fuss started and came out to assist his employe in putting the men out. Later he went back in the rear of the bar when the negro shouted to him that "they were killing the chief (Robbins) out on the sidewalk." He got the club and went out to the protection of his employe. Upon cross-examination by the State it was brought out that Mr. Shockley saw no blows passed, though he believed that his clerk was in danger of violence at the hands of the angry men.

Drs. A. H. Harriss, W. D. McMillan, Messrs. Jos. W. Yates, J. P. Goldsborough, Jos. H. Hinton, James F. Post and County Treasurer H. McL. Green all testified that Shockley's character was good. Mr. Goldsborough, proprietor of the Colonial Inn, knew the defendant in Delaware before either of them came to Wilmington.

The club with which the fatal blows were struck was introduced and identified. The evidence was completed about 6:30 o'clock and as court was about to adjourn, Solicitor Duffy interrupted a moment while witness Charles Hurst whispered to him. Solicitor Duffy went to the judge for a brief conference and before the deputy had made the formal outcry of adjournment Witness Lutie Croom was called to the bench and asked as to alleged threats that he had made against Hurst about "seeing him outside" about some contradictory testimony that Hurst had given in regard to Croom. The latter explained the nature of the conversation with Hurst and said that he had no purpose of interfering with the court. The witnesses had been kept out of the court room in the jury room while the evidence was being given in and it was there that the alleged remarks were made by Croom. Judge Jones delivered a very caustic lecture about tampering with witnesses and the power of the court in this respect and the witness was dismissed with a warning.

The incident was the only sensational event of the day and was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators who had gathered to hear the Shockley trial. Another large crowd will be in the court room to-day to hear the argument of counsel in the case It is understood that the burden of the presentation of the law in the case for the State will be that the defendant exercised a greater degree of force than was necessary to have protected the employe; that the circumstances were not such as to show that Robbins was in danger of any great bodily harm or of his life when the blow was dealt Talbert by Shockley. The matter will be hard fought by both sides and there is much speculation as to the outcome of the case. The jury remains together in the Court House and will not be allowed to separate until the verdict is rendered.

I suffered with my back for a long time. When I sat at my desk for awhile and attempted to straighten up I would have to catch hold of the chair for support and straighten myself gradually. The kidney secretions were dark colored and full of sendiment. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and went to R. R. Bellamy's drug store and got a box. Since using them my back is strong and I can move about and stand up as straight as ever and the kidney secretions have all cleared up. THE PINK KIMONO

By IZOLA FORRESTER

Copyright, 1906, by Ruby Douglas

It lay on the massive settee in the hall, an innocent looking parcel, flat and somewhat square. Three of Warwick's letters lay on top of it, neatly, as the hall boy had placed them, also his weekly paper from home.

Warwick glanced at the letters, again at the clock, tossed off his hat, coat and gloves and carried the whole lot, parcel, letters and paper, into the comfortable study and dropped into a deep chair.

There was an hour before the crowd would arrive. Everything was ready. The spread would be sent up at 8:30 sharp. He hoped Stanton would be able to get away. He liked Stanton. The boy needed a good friendly grip just now. He knew himself what it was to be in New York a stranger. Money could not give one the password that admitted one to the inside of things, the "getting next to the itness of all," as Stanton said. And if the right path did not open, and one happened to be lonely, there were others wide and welcoming. Warwick knew.

The boy was young and clever. The only thing that ailed him was too much money, and the confidence he had therein. He was a bit handy with it all—the whirl and the swing and the chance for big success. Warwick had kept an eye on him for weeks, measuring and judging him, and now he was satisfied. All the boy needed was direction and a cool hand checking him now and then, and he would win out.

Warwick opened the weekly paper from home and smiled to himself at the familiar heading, the Weekly Visitor. Ever since he could remember the Weekly Visitor had visited regularly at the quiet, big gray house that crowned Warwick's hill, up in Hillsboro, N. H. And Stanton was from the country, too, some place out west, out in Nebraska. He wondered if he had a weekly paper, too, to keep him in touch with the old world, and the ethics and standards of something besides New York.

The letters were unimportant. He took up the parcel and slipped off the cord. Laundry probably. He had not ordered anything.

The paper fell to the floor and he sat staring at the thing in his hands. It was a pink, delicate, shimmering, silken thing. He stood up and shook it out to its full length. It reached to the floor. It was not a bath robe. It could not possibly be a smoking jacket. It was a woman's garment, unmistakably.

The texture was the softest Japanese crape, the silk interwoven around the sleeves and neck in a border of golden butterflies. There was no mark on it nor on the paper. Warwick looked carefully.

The door bell buzzed imperatively, once, twice and a long one. That was Billy Trainor's ring. Warwick hesitated, cast the pink silk thing behind him on the chair and opened the door.

Billy stepped in smilingly, interrogatively looked about the room and spied the pink silk thing.

"Rex," he said reproachfully; "why, Rex!"

"It was left here by mistake," said Warwick hastily. "The hall boy did it. What is it?"

Billy lifted it by the shoulders and beamed with the appreciative eye of a connoisseur.

"It's a kimono, the real imported article. No bargain sale. Who's the lucky lady?"

The door bell buzzed again. Warwick took the kimono with deliberate forethought, went to the wardrobe in his dressing room and concealed it therein.

"It's Stanton," Billy announced, "and the rest."

Warwick played the host with more inner discomfort than ever before in his life. It was not the mere fact of the mistake that troubled him, nor that he minded the boys knowing of it, but he didn't want to see that particular—what had Billy called it?—kimono?—handled and laughed about and speculated over. Somewhere there must be the girl who wanted that kimono. He hoped she was a brunette. Pink was best for brunettes. Not too much of a brunette, perhaps with blue eyes, or gray—yes, gray—a gray eye or so.

Billy was pushing back the chairs and taborets for the spread. Stanton was singing at the piano. Out in the kitchenette Yates and Rogers and the Danforths were rummaging for dishes and knives and forks. Big De Veau was up on the divan with its red Turkish cover draped picturesquely about him, reciting some original poetry.

"Rex, don't you own a decent tablecloth, you beggar?" called Yates.

Warwick smoked without replying. Through the haze he saw the brunette girl with the pink kimono about her smiling deliciously like a geisha—no, he didn't want her to be a geisha—smiling, well, just as a girl should smile when she had the right one to smile at.

Stanton left the piano and came over.

"Say, you're a prince to get me here tonight," he said. "I didn't know you had a place like this. Beats hotels, doesn't it? What do you call it?"

"Studio apartment," said Warwick, lazily. "Half den, half home, not confined to bachelors. I like it. When a fellow's had a home, it always sticks to him a bit. There's a Jap comes in and cleans up for me, and if I want a meal, I can have it."

"I—I am going to housekeeping too," began Stanton awkwardly.

"Honeymoon?" Warwick's eyes lighted with amusement. He had not dreamed the boy had gone so far.

"No, not as bad as that," Stanton hesitated, glancing at the joyous, riotous crowd about the piano. "It's my sister. Mother's sent her on to take care of me until she can come herself. I guess they didn't get very good accounts of their little boy in Manhattan. But I wrote home and told them about you and what sort of a chap you were and how you had taken me under your wing, and I promised to cut out the hotel and—well, a whole lot of things mother didn't like the flavor of, and today"—

Warwick sat up and dropped his cigarette. Waltzing dizzily, radiantly, wickedly out from the dressing room came Yates, arrayed in the pink silk kimono. There was a silence, then a long drawn howl of delight from the crowd. They caught Yates in their arms, and swept him up on the center table. They handed him a Samoan fan of dyed plumes and a Mexican peaked hat. Trainor at the piano crashed into the "San Toy" overture. And suddenly Warwick stood up, white and mad, mad clear through that they should dare even in jest to touch anything that belonged to the dear, unknown girl, the brunette with the gray eyes.

"Take that off!" he said.

The music stopped short, but not from his words. Every face in the crowd was turned toward the door of the hall, and Yates looked helpless and miserable. Warwick turned, too, and held his breath. She stood in the doorway, one hand lifting aside the heavy drapery. Behind her was George, the colored hall boy. Her face looked startled, and yet there was amusement, too, in the wide gray eyes, as they glanced from face to face and finally rested on Yates.

"There is some mistake, I think," she said gently. "George tells me a parcel of mine was left here tonight. I have only moved here today, and he made a mistake. I think that gentleman has on my kimono."

Wretched, limp and apologetic, Yates was assisted from the table, and divested of the pink silk gown.

"I am sorry to spoil your amusement"— she stopped, and turned her head toward Warwick as the host, when all at once her eyes met Stanton's.

"Marjorie!" he gasped. "Marjorie, you blessed kid!"

Silently and discreetly the crowd averted its composite face while Stanton kissed Marjorie ecstatically. Warwick looked unhappy.

"Boys," cried Stanton, "this is my sister, all the way from Nebraska to Manhattan to take care of her little brother."

"Mother is here, too," Marjorie explained, blushing at the effusive welcome accorded her. "We had the address of these apartments and you wrote that they were very nice, you know, and that Mr. Warwick lived here"—

"That's Warwick," interposed Stanton. "He's a bully fellow."

Warwick bowed. Suddenly he felt a great, supreme gladness steal over him. She had gray eyes, Stanton's sister from Nebraska.

"So we came right here from the depot, and mother wanted to surprise you by having everything ready. I bought my kimono on the way here, because our trunks haven't come yet, and the boy made a mistake delivering it. We have the apartment just across the hall."

"Boys," cried Stanton, "come on to the apartment across the hall and be introduced. You've got to make us welcome, because we've come to stay."

Decorously and quietly the crowd crossed to the apartment next door. With dignity and beautiful grace they were introduced to Stanton's mother and to Stanton's home, and Stanton knew he was accepted and admitted forever to the "itness of things."

But Warwick sat in a corner watching Marjorie make tea, tea from his teapot, which the Jap servant had brought over, and over the back of her chair hung the pink silk kimono. He was wondering how she would look in it.

"Sugar?" she asked. "One or two, Mr. Warwick?"

"Two," said Warwick, with a half suppressed sigh. "Say, do you know Mar—Miss Stanton, I'm awfully glad you're a brunette, with gray eyes."

"Why?" Marjorie's head bent lower over the teapot. Tea making does require so much careful attention.

"Because," said Warwick, "pink is so becoming to that type."

"And to Mr. Yates' type, too," laughed Marjorie, but her face was flushed as she slipped the pink kimono around her, over her gray traveling suit, and poured the tea a la Japanese for the crowd, and for Warwick.

Grasshopper Glacier.

One of the small glaciers in Montana is of special interest on account of the fact that in the mass of ice there are imbedded two strata of grasshoppers, each about a foot thick. There are literally tons of grasshoppers in the ice, and the question naturally arises as to where they came from. The most obvious explanation is that centuries ago two enormous swarms in course of migration were caught in a snowstorm, chilled and buried in the snow, where they have remained till now in a perfect state of preservation. In the accounts of the early western explorers a few instances are related of meeting large swarms of locusts on the mountain tops in the Rockies. It is a very fortunate circumstance that the great extension of agriculture in the west has broken up the breeding grounds of these insects.—St. Louis Republic.

Ingersoll on Napoleon.

A little while ago I stood by the grave of the great Napoleon—a magnificent tomb of gilt and gold. I saw him take an empire by the force of his genius. I saw him upon the frightful field of Waterloo, when chance and fate combined to wreck the fortunes of the former king, and I saw him at St. Helena with his hands crossed behind him gazing out at the sad and solemn sea. I thought of the orphans and widows he had made, of the tears that had been shed for his glory, and of the only woman who had ever loved him pushed from his heart by the cruel hand of ambition, and I said I would rather have been a French peasant and worn wooden shoes. I would rather have been that poor peasant with my loving wife by my side, knitting as the day died out in the skies, with my children upon my knees and their arms about me. I would rather have been that man and gone down to the tongueless silence of the dreamless dust than to have been that impartial impersonation of force and murder known as Napoleon the Great.—Woman's Home Companion.

Blowing the Nose.

Medical experts are calling the attention of the public to the importance of performing the nose blowing operation in a scientific and hygienic manner. First one nostril and then the other should be blown without undue violence. Doctors state that the two nasal passages should never be closed at the same time. If they are obstructed, as in the case of a cold, the back of the throat is filled with compressed air, and this, together with the discharge and the microbes which it contains, may be driven through the eustachial tube into the middle ear and lead to serious results. A great authority on the subject used to forbid his patients to blow their noses when suffering from a cold. The course is hardly one which will commend itself to those in the habit of catching colds. The best advice would seem to be that when it is necessary to blow the nose the blowing should be done gently.—London Mail.

Too Lively.

He was a solemn Scotchman, with an equally solemn and somewhat downtrodden wife. The fact that they were receiving an excellent price for their "second pair front" from an American lodger did not blind them to her failings.

"Dear me, Mr. Macleod," said the lodger, one Sunday afternoon, when an errand took her to the parlor, where the family sat, "I should think you and your wife would be stifled sitting indoors this hot day with the windows shut. If you'd just open one and get some fresh air, I'm sure it would do Mrs. Macleod good; she looks pale."

"We can hae fresh air ony day," he said calmly. "We've no need to hae it rushing aboot the house on the Sawbath."

Germany the Modern Rome.

Let the German people keep a lesson from antiquity before their eyes. Once before an England and a Germany of no less different character have confronted each other. They were Carthage and Rome. And old Rome with its policy of force and power finally conquered the cash politics of Carthage and raised itself to the position of the first power upon earth. We have historical example when we say that the German people must return from the imitation of the un-German Carthaginian-British finance policy and must go back to the Roman-German policy of power and might. In no other way can a really great Weltpolitik be promoted in the hope perhaps of making ourselves ultimately the leading people in the world.—Berlin Grenzboten.

Spanish Sheep.

There are said to be 10,000,000 migratory sheep in Spain, which travel on occasions as much as 200 miles from the plains to the mountains. They are known as transhumantes, and their march, resting places and behavior are governed by special regulations dating from the fourteenth century. At certain times no one may travel the same route as the sheep, which have the right to graze on all open and common land on the way.

Much Exaggerated.

"Tell me," said the inquisitive foreigner, "do American girls affect men's clothes?"

"No," replied the gallant native, "not to any extent."

"Well, well, is that really true?"

"Well, of course, a little rouge may stick to the shoulder of a fellow's coat occasionally, but then it's easily brushed off."—Philadelphia Press.

Chess and Intellect.

It is doubtful whether a great chess player is often, we are sure he is not of necessity, to be regarded as a man of powerful intellect. It has never been shown that the greatest masters of the game were men with big brains for anything but chess.—London Saturday Review.

LUMBER MAKERS' ANNUAL MEETING

North Carolina Pine Association to Meet at Chadbourn October 11-12. Wonderful Growth of Organization in Two Years.

(Charlotte Observer)

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 27.—The North Carolina Pine Association, composed now of nearly 200 manufacturers of pine lumber and representing the bulk of the entire lumber output in Virginia and the Carolinas, is preparing for its annual meeting to be held in Charleston, S. C., October 11th and 12th.

The meeting will be held in the assembly rooms of the Charleston Commercial Club. More than 300 lumbermen, principally of North and South Carolina, are expected to attend.

A feature of the meeting will be a big banquet to which the most prominent orators of the South have been invited, including Governor Swanson, of Virginia; former Governor Aycock, of North Carolina; Governor Heyward, of South Carolina; Senator Ben Tillman, and Hoke Smith and John Temple Graves, of Georgia.

Besides these general speakers others will be in attendance whose talks will bear more directly on the lumber industry, such as Lewis Dill, president of the National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association; Richard D. White, president of the Eastern States Retail Lumber Dealers' Association; John L. Kaul, president of the Yellow Pine Manufacturers' Association and others.

Special transportation rates are being arranged with the railroad companies and no effort is being spared to induce a record-breaking attendance.

This semi-anual meeting of the North Carolina Pine Association is of unusual interest just at this time, in view of the great growth of the lumber industry in the three States in which it operates. The association has grown from a membership of 30 two years ago to a membership that is expected to exceed 200 at the October meeting. Association mills in Virginia and the Carolinas cut nearly a billion and a half feet of lumber annually. Some of this enormous output is consumed locally, but the bulk of it is shipped to thirteen Eastern and Northern States from Ohio to Maine, where it figures in all kinds of building operations. Even the foreign markets recognize this North Carolina pine lumber and it is used extensively in England, Germany and the Netherlands, where it is being imported in ever increasing volume.

Starving to Death.

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging that she could not eat, Mrs. Mary H. Walters, of St. Clair St., Columbus, O., was literally starving to death. She writes: "My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters; with the wonderful result that improvement began at once, and a complete cure followed." Best health Tonic on earth. 50c. Guaranteed R. R. Bellamy druggist.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, September 28.—The cotton market was fairly active today, sales being estimated at 250,000 bales. Fluctuations were irregular and the market closed at a decline of 3 points to an advance of 2 points, near months being relatively steady. The opening was unchanged to 4 points higher in response to higher cables than expected and continued reports of unfavorable weather in the South. It was the first notice day for October contracts and it was estimated that notices representing about 35,000 bales were issued but there was a good demand for October around the ring and that month rules relatively firm on reports that spot interest were competing for the actual cotton. Shortly after the opening prices showed an advance of 3 to 5 points on the general list, but offerings were quite heavy on the advance owing to the absence of many crop complaints from the track of the tropical storm and prices sagged off in the afternoon on the theory that the weather would clear up over Sunday and that receipts would be heavier next week. The demand for October steadied the market in the late trading. A private crop report was issued indicating a deterioration in condition for the month of a little over 6 per cent and estimating the crop at about 11,900,000 bales with an average frost date.

Receipts of cotton at the ports today 45,179 bales, against 37,388 last week, and 49,966 last year. For the week 195,000 bales, against 185.934 last week and 293,723 last year. MOBILE DEVASTATED BY TROPICAL STORM

Many Lives Lost, Numerous Persons Injured, 5,000 Houses Damaged and Business Quarter Wrecked. Seven Steamers and Other Craft Sunk.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Mobile, Ala., via Meridian, Miss., September 28.—Loss of life variously estimated at from five to fifty persons, many people injured, five thousand houses damaged, the business quarter devastated, and a property loss of fully $3,000,000. is the effect of a tropical hurricane of the last 48 hours on the city of Mobile.

The storm struck Mobile Wednesday at midnight, and raged for many hours, the wind reaching a velocity of 90 miles an hour. Water from Mobile bay was blown into the city by the gale and for a time stood seven feet deep in the wholesale quarter from Royal street to the Alabama river.

The loss of life is believed to be mainly among negroes, although conditions are so chaotic that information is indefinite. Shipping suffered severely.

Among the steamers sunk were the J. P. Shuh, Mary E. Staples, Mary S. Bleese, Cama Overton, Hattie B. Moore. City of Camden, United States revenue cutter Alert, and many smaller crafts. It is feared that the crews of these boats were lost.

Mobile has been placed under control of militia. Nobody is permitted in the streets except newspaper men and persons wearing badges.

Much apprehension is felt for the suburban towns. It is feared they have been obligated. The chances were that the loss of life on Dauphin Island is heavy. Many fishermen live on Dauphin Island and other outlying, marshy tracts, from which no tidings have been received.

The suffering in Mobile is severe. The annihilation of transportation facilities has shut off all supplies, and unless help reaches Mobile from the outside world soon, great distress will result.

Every church in Mobile was damaged, the Christ Church Cathedral and St. Francis Street Baptist church suffering more than others. The damage to Christ Church Cathedral is estimates at $40,000, and St. Francis Street Baptist church at $10.000.

The revenue cufter Alert was rammed by an unknown vessel in Mobile river and sank immediately. Her crew is believed to have escaped.

All wharves from Frascati street, the extreme south end of the city, as far up the river as Three Mile creek, are wrecks. This includes the new Mobile and Ohio docks and the Louisville and Nashville docks.

Electric light companies, street railways and in fact, all business nas been suspended.

The Mobile and Ohio railroad was the first road to get out of the city, its first train having left Mobile at 4 A. M. Friday.

Numerous saw mills in the northern and marshy regions have been either washed away by the terrific waves, or torn to splinters by the winds. Their lumber and timbers are to be seen scattered all over the city, and floating down the slowly falling river.

The harbor steamer, James A. Carney, plying between Mobile and the eastern shore, lies beached just across the river and opposite St. Francis street.

Much fear is entertained for Fort Morgan, where the government quarantine station is situated and many soldiers live.

Privisions are almost exhausted. Restaurants feed many but have no supplies on hand. Ham and eggs constitute their food supplies. These, too, will soon become exhausted. Wholesale houses lost many thousands of dollars from flood and willingly paid as high as $1.50 an hour for common labor and earnestly begged men to accept such pay, so frantic were they to save their goods.

Between 6 o'clock Thursday evening and Friday night, trees were felled and roofs were cruushed by hundreds. Through the streets, carried by the terrific wind, were hurled thousands of pieces of slate, strips of tin roofing, cornices, shingles, and in fact, all kinds of debris. Blinds were torn from their fastenings and windows smashed as though of tissue paper. Many persons were seriously injured with flying slate, tin and tinders.

The office of the Western Union Telegraph company was six feet under water. Its batteries were flooded and it will be sometime before business can be resumed. The Postal Telegraph building also suffered severely.

The Cawthorn Hotel, just completed, and the Bienville Hotel, facing Bienville square, are damaged to the extent of $5,000 each, the Windsor Hotel $5,000, St. Andrews $3,000, The Southern $3.000.

The Southern Supply Company estimated its loss at $100,000.

Among the wholesale houses to have sustained the greatest damage are: Pollock & Bernheimer, wholesale dry goods; the English Manufacturing Wagon Company, wagons and buggies; S. Jacobson, dry goods; Dorgan & Young, hardware; Cunningham Hardware Company, Barney Cavanaugh Hardware Company, Mobile Drug Company, E. O. Zeadk, jewelry company, Draper & Burns, clothing; American Supply Company, mill supplies; Christian Supply Company, Cleveland Brothers, wholesale grain; T. O. Bush & Co., wholesale grocers; James McDonnell Company, wholesale grocers, the Marshall Lyons Grocery Company, Muscat & Lott, produce dealers; the Mobile Brewery, the Bienville Brewery, the Dixie Grain Company, James McPhillips Grocery Company. Besides these many other wholesale houses in the city sustained heavy losses.

The Merchants' Bank, the First National Bank and the Lienkauff Bank were inundated.

Hundreds of bales of cotton floated through the main streets and were carried out to sea. Cotton not lost this way was damaged by muddy water.

At Fort Morgan, 35 miles down the bay, the wind had a much higher velocity than at Mobile. Towns along the Mobile and Bay Shore roads suffered immensely owing to their exposed situations. No word from the coast towns along the Louisville and Nashville road has reached Mobile. There is little doubt that many lives were lost, and severe damage done to property. Along the Gulf coast there were many fashionable residences. The rain fall for two days was 6.47 inches.

The average velocity of the wind as officially announced by the weather bureau was 55 miles an hour. The official maximum reached in 1893 was 72 miles an hour. Even with this marked difference in wind velocity, this years storm did greater damage to Mobile because the wind of Thursday was of longer duration and more like a tornado, twisting everything in its path.

The Louisville and Nashville and the Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City Railroad shops were inundated, the machinery and rollinf stock sustaining heavy damages.

Along the line of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad from Meridian to Mobile the Associated Press correspondent saw huge trees uprooted with limbs torn off and trunks twisted. The streams are all banked, and for 45 miles north of Mobile looking to the right of the railroad one can see nothing except a solid sheet of water running swiftly toward Mobile. Many farm houses are situated in this inundated region and there may have been loss of life there.

Fruit trees and all vegetable crops all over Southern Alabama and Mississippi are ruined. So also the cotton, sugar cane and other crops.

The roof of the Mobile Medical college was blown off. The college had a valuable museum, which was damaged.

St. Paul's African Methodist Episcopal church was razed.

The Girls' Asylum and Creole School on Conti street are greatly damaged.

The florists of Mobile lost heavily, plants and flowers being strewn along the streets for blocks.

The Mobile county court house presents a wrecked appearance. The clock in the tower was blown out by the wind. The Union station at the end of Government street, which caught fire several days ago, is damaged considerably.

The water came up so rapidly that the railroad employes were unable to remove the baggage checked for transportation. Many trunks were seen floating down the bay.

An aged negro discovered an old negress in imminent danger of drowning. Hearing her appeals for help, he seized an unusually large tub, placed her in it and landed her safely.

Great Damage to Cotton Crop.

New Orleans, September 28.—The first news from the Gulf coast towns in Mississippi which had not been heard from in over 36 hours was received today and indicated that there was probably no loss of life there. Property damage was not mentioned. The mesage as brought by a Louisville and Nashville Railroad official from Bay St. Louis, Miss., who crossed the washout at Lake Catherine this morning. He said that reports in Bay St. Louis were that eastward toward Mobile, the railroad tracks are probably little damaged as far as the Alabama State line.

No word to indicate anything like a catastrophe has been received, however, that at Scranton, the storm had done considerable damage to the railroad tracks and that nothing was known of the situation east of this point.

The first definite news from the Mississippi delta was received today. It showed that the delta land had been flooded, that hundreds of fishermen had been driven from their homes into luggers, but that despite the wrecking of some of their boats, loss of life was very small. The property damage along the lower river, however, was widespread.

Reports from the northeast, in Mississippi, were like those from the east and south in stating that loss of life had been small.

Great damage to the cotton crop was reported in dispatches to the cotton exchange. Baton Rouge, La., reported about 20 per cent damage, Gallman, Miss., reported rains which flattened the plant down in the mud, and Natches, Miss., reported that there and immediately across the river in Louisiana the damage was probably 25 per cent.

The excursion steamer Camelia on Lake Pontchartrain, about whose safety fears were expressed, safely landed today.

Storn Whipping North.

Washrington, September 28.—The Gulf storm is now central over the lower Ohio Valley, moving northnortheastward. It has diminished greatly in strength and now presents no alarming features, although it will probably be attended by brisk to high winds in its passage across the Great Lakes. Rain has fallen east of the Misisippi and south of the Ohio river, also in Indiana, Illinois, Eastern Iowa, Misouri and Southern Wisconsin.

WARM WIRELETS.

If the present plans are carried out, President Roosevelt will take no part in the New York gubernatorial campaign this year. While it is known that he was greatly pleased with the selecton of Charles E. Hughes, as the head of the Republican State ticket, his comment on the convention's action, for the time being at least, will be confined to the telegram of congratulations which he sent to the candidate Wednesday night.

Paul O. Stensland, the Chicago bank convict, was assigned to cell 22 in the east wing of the penitentiary at Joliet on Thursday, and was put to work in the sorting room of the broom factory, where he will labor alongside of John A. Linn, former clerk of the Superior Court of Chicago, under sentence for embezzlement.

The greatest problem in the Millinery Department is to show the new ideas of both foreign and home artists first, when successful models and beginning to be generally copied. We discard them and introduce something new. It's a race against time and only a store especially organized for such service can ever hope to accomplish it.

Our Millinery Department has proven its value to you by the very work we speak of and more new ideas find their introduction here than any other store in this city can boast of. And with all we charge but moderately, never more than other stores, nine times out of ten much less.

We will show over three hundred pattern hats at our opening.

Opening Week in the Suit Department.
